

WHITE SOX RALLY IN EIGHTH AND BACK GABRIEL TO LONG VICTORY OVER THE BRAVES

Butler Drops Fly and Merriam Starts; Nine Runs Scored by Hose Before Gabe Relieves Smiley and Halts Parade

NEW HURLER FANS SEVEN IN ONE ROW

Resurrection of Three-Beaten Pinneymen Occurs with Much Vim; Even Blowing of Trump Not Lacking on Dread Day

Surely, the millennium has come. Didn't the good book say something about Gabriel blowing his horn? It was all there but the horn, yesterday. The millennium on which the White Sox were resurrected, and Gabriel, and if one wants to be very particular, one can call what Pinney blew a horn.

But it wasn't Gabriel that started things. It was Butler. And here's the how of it:

The How of It
The Braves chased Godfrey in the second, Gabriel had slid off first base and had fanned seven straight Braves, but his second wind wasn't good and in the eighth inning the score was 6 to 3 in favor of the Quirons crowd. Garters (that is to say Sox supporters) had been yelling for that "good-old lucky seventh." The G. O. L. S. netted exactly one run, which didn't mean much.

To repeat, the score was 6 to 3. Smiley spit and he wound up, hurled a tantalizing goose-eye, a long slow ball over, and made Dick Warren pop up to Ole Andy Scott. Then (get set for the news)—then, Butler dropped an easy pop fly. Cooper was safe at first.

Then, the slaughter started. Gabriel came up and clouted it. Haldiman came up and clouted it. McGuire came up and clouted it. Bush (not his real name but no matter)—Bush came up and clouted it. It was an extra sort of a clout, giving Bush free right to third base, only he made home on an over-throw. Just to be sociable, Dunsmore came up and clouted it.

That was all the clouting for the nonce. Gabe supplanted Smiley on the mound. Parham spilled his long knock-out of Teddy's glove and was safe. Hagley got an honest to gosh HP, that is to say, a hard heaved ball in the ribs. The clouting was thereupon resumed by Warren, getting his second walk-off at it. Cooper outed by the Butler to Chicago. Then (get set for the news)—then, Butler dropped an easy pop fly. Cooper was safe at first.

Here they were, Smiley and Godfrey, both old timers, dickered. Here also were Gabriel and Gabe (the latter is abbreviated, because that's the name he's best known by and because he must be distinguished from his port-side enemy). But the White Sox overturned the records of three or four straight defeats, and although they didn't hit worth a cuss back of the deservingly sir, Gabriel until almost too late, they showed they got something.

The usual amount of gall was displayed by the crowd along the base lines, and the usual number of foul balls were wound in amongst them, with the usual regretted absence of fatalities.

FOOTBALL STAR IS A CLEVELAND YACHTSMAN

Jimmy Craig, the famous Michigan football player and intercollegiate champion bowler in 1912, is an amateur sailor. The star halfback of Hurry Up Yost's great school has been appointed fleet captain of the Detroit Boat club. He is an ardent skipper in the catboat events. Craig will figure prominently in the July regatta of the Interlake association at Put-in-Bay.

Giants May Beat Games Record Cleveland Has Chance to Cop Says A. P.

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]

NEW YORK, May 28.—The eyes of the baseball world were focused in the week just closed on the remarkable record of the New York national. The rejuvenated Giants, who were able to win only two out of their first fifteen games this season, now have an unbroken string of sixteen victories and have risen from last position to second place, where they are within two games of the Brooklyn leaders.

The aggressiveness developed by the Giants leads many of their fans to hope they will not stop until they have equalled or surpassed the world's record of twenty straight games won, made by the old Providence team in 1884, or the modern record of nineteen straight made by the Chicago Americans, the famous "Hitless Wonders" of 1906.

The eastern clubs, by virtue of the success of their western invasion, virtually monopolize the first positions of both leagues. The only exception is the Cleveland Americans. The first invasion of the west, which ended Wednesday, resulted in the eastern clubs of the National League winning thirty-five games and losing nineteen, while the eastern teams of the younger organization won twenty-eight and lost nineteen.

Brooklyn lost the lead in the National league during the week to Philadelphia but holds it today as a result of its double victory over Philadelphia on Saturday. The three leading teams are so close together that any day may bring changes.

The Boston Braves were unable to split even on their western trip and fell back into fourth position by losing three straight to the Giants. The four western clubs fared badly during the week.

The world champion Boston Americans took three straight games from Detroit last week but then lost three straight in their series with New York. Largely because of poor pitching and the failure of Cobb and some of the others to strike their stride, the Detroit Tigers continued to lose during the week, winning only one game and dropping into sixth place. Chicago played only three games, winning one, losing one and playing a tie with Washington, Thursday.

Neither the Athletics nor St. Louis made any progress, each losing three games and winning two.

In the close race in the American association the Minneapolis champions attained first place last week, but four home runs rapped out by Kansas City laters in the Friday game resulted in the rout of the Millers and Louisville, beating Columbus at the same time went into the lead again.

the week and were unable to better their positions appreciably.

The form displayed by the New York Americans was one of the features of the week. The Yankees have won five straight games, chiefly through the hitting of Leslie Sunda-maker, who leads the American league batters. "Faddy" Baumann, who is relieving Frank Baker during the latter's indisposition, Magee and Fipp.

Cleveland was unable to do better than split even in the week ending Saturday night, winning two and losing two. The team now within easy striking distance of Washington, which is in the lead, is looked upon as one of the principal contenders for the pennant. The individual playing of Tris Speaker and John Graney has contributed in no small way to the success of the Indians.
